ART 708-Introduction To Ceramics (UC/CSU) - 3 Units

Requirement Designation: Meets CSU C1

Enrollment Requirement: Art - Ceramics Course Family

Students in this beginning course learn the basic methods of creating ceramics that include basic design principles. Hand building techniques introduced in this course include slab, coil and pinch methods of construction and ceramic terminology. The emphasis will be drawn to the technical understanding of the behavior of clay and glazes. The course covers aesthetics and creative development of clay objects examining historical, contemporary, and personal modes of expression across cultures. ART 709-Ceramics I (UC/CSU) - 3 Units

Requirement Designation: Meets CSU C1

Enrollment Requirement: Maximum of four enrollments in the Art-Ceramics course family.

This course provides continuation of introduction to ceramics. The emphasis of this course is learning to form vessels on the throwing wheel. The course material stresses further concepts of design. Art 709 curriculum has students investigate a more complex understanding of surface with glazing techniques, ceramic terminology, and clay and glaze chemistry. The course covers aesthetics and creative development of clay objects examining cultural, historical, contemporary, and personal modes of expression. BUSINESS

BUS 001-Introduction To Business (UC/CSU) - 3 Units

Requirement Designation: Meets CSU D2

Students engage in a multidisciplinary examination of how culture, society, economic systems, legal, international, political, financial institutions, and human behavior interact to affect a business organization's policy and practices within the U.S. and a global society. The course demonstrates how these influences impact the primary areas of business including: organizational structure and design, leadership, human resource management, risk management and insurance, organized labor practices, ethics and social responsibility, marketing, organizational communication, e-business/technology, entrepreneurship, legal, accounting, and financial practices, and the stock and securities market; and therefore how they affect a business's ability to achieve its organizational goals.

This course will introduce and explain all the phases of project management in a facilities setting. Students will learn what a facility project is, and the tasks to be completed for a project to be successful. Part of the tools for completing a successful facility project include: defining a project; understanding the role(s) of a project manager and a project team; defining the project problem statement and charter; developing a breakdown structure; creating a scope of work, project budget, and schedule. Students will also learn how to develop a risk analysis, and develop contingency plans as well as learn how to monitor the project and project team. Lastly, students will ensure project is completed on time and within the determined budget.

Requirement Designation: Meets IGETC 5A 5C CSU B1 B3

Enrollment Requirement: CHEM 102

This course is the first part of a two semester organic chemistry course sequence. Students are introduced to organic molecular structures, bonding, nomenclature including conformational analysis, potential energy plots, hybridization, stereochemistry and functional group chemistry, with emphasis on reactions and reaction mechanisms. It also includes the applications of instrumental methods in functional group analysis and identification of molecular structures. In the laboratory students learn the essential skills and techniques of preparation, isolation, purification, and analysis of organic compounds by employing standard and modern instrumental methods. This course also emphasizes the use and interpretation of Nuclear

CHEM 212-Organic Chemistry For Science Majors II (UC/CSU) - 5 Units

Requirement Designation: Meets IGETC 5A 5C CSU B1 B3

Enrollment Requirement: CHEM 211

This course is a continuation of Chemistry 211 with emphasis on the remaining functional groups and aromaticity. Emphasis is put on reactions and reaction mechanisms, stereochemistry, multi-step synthesis of a variety of organic compounds such as aromatic compounds, alcohols, phenols, amines, heterocyclics, aldehydes, ketones, carboxylic acids and their derivatives. The structures, formation and reactions of enoles and enolate anions are also studied. The structures and functional group reactions of biological molecules such as carbohydrates, amino acids, polypeptides, lipids and nucleic acids are discussed. The laboratory work presents more techniques of multi-step synthesis, isolation, purification, and analysis of organic compounds using conventional and modern instrumental methods. This course also emphasizes the use and interpretation of Nuclear Magnetic Resonance (NMR), Infrared (IR), Mass Spectroscopy (MS), Ultraviolet (UV), and Gas Chromatograph (GC) in the analysis and identification of organic compounds.

The Chem. 211 and 212 sequence satisfy the one year organic chemistry requirement for careers in the physical, biological, and health sciences and a requirement for the Associate of Sciences degree in Chemistry.

CIS 229-Introduction To Cisco Network Fundamentals (CSU) - 3 Units

Enrollment Requirement: Advisory: CIS 210 and CIS 222

This course is equivalence to Semester I & II of the Cisco Network Academy. Part 1 of this course introduces the architecture, structure, functions, components, and models of the Internet and computer networks. The principles of IP addressing and fundamentals of Ethernet concepts, media, and operations are introduced to provide a foundation for the curriculum. By the end of Part 1, students will be able to build simple LANs, perform basic configurations for routers and switches, and implement IP addressing schemes. Part 2 of this course describes the architecture, components, and operations of routers and switches in a small network. Students learn how to configure a router and a switch for basic functionality. By the end of Part II, students will be able to configure and troubleshoot routers and switches and resolve common issues with RIPv1, RIPv2, single-area and multi-area OSPF, virtual LANs, and inter-VLAN routing in both IPv4 and IPv6 networks. Students completing this course prepared to take the Cisco ICND1 and/or CCENT certification exam.

EDUC 211-Introduction to Educational Issues (UC/CSU) - 3 Units

Requirement Designation: Meets IGETC 4 CSU D

This course serves as an introduction to the broad landscape of public education in the United States. It is applicable to students with interests in educational research, policy, or teaching in both formal and informal educational contexts. The course will provide context to answer the question, 'What is the purpose of public education?' Educators, students, parents, politicians, and community members may have varying answers to this question. Their respective answers have implications for how we organize schools as social and cultural institutions, how we think about teaching and learning, and how we determine the intended outcomes of education. Students will examine this question in relation to contemporary issues in the landscape of public education; understanding education and educational institutions in social, cultural, and historical contexts; and understanding the science of learning and human development in educational settings. The course readings highlight the work of educational researchers from UCLA's Department of Education, especially the ways their scholarship intersects with policy and practice. To complement the weekly reading and class discussion, students will work in groups to identify a real-life problem affecting public education in Los Angeles. Students will study this problem from multiple perspectives throughout the course. The final project involves conceptualizing a socially just solution to this real-life educational problem. Students will be required to conduct a minimum of three hours observing in a public preK-16 classroom setting.
