COURSE OUTLINE

COURSE DESCRIPTION (3 Units)

African American Studies 4 & History 41 is a combined survey course, and as such it will cover the interrelated history of the African-American, from Africa's past to the eve of America's Reconstruction Period. Emphasis is placed upon the history of African-Americans and its impact upon U.S. History from pre-colonial times to the post Civil War period. This course provides a background in the political and social development of the United States for students majoring in the Social Sciences, and in addition, for those who wish to gain a better understanding of the African-American in American civilization. It also includes a survey of the U.S. Constitution.

CURRICULAR PLACEMENT: CSU: UC

PURPOSE OF TAKING THIS COURSE: STUDENT SUCCESS

This course will help prepare students toward achieving their academic goals in college of graduating and transferring to any university of their choice. The education and knowledge of History opens up the future to those students who want to acquire and determine their own future, wherein they will make a positive and significance difference in their own society, and, globally as diplomats, lawyers, community leaders, and positive role models for others. In this course you will learn how to: think critically, understand how to take good lecture notes and apply what you have learned outside of the classroom to: your home, friends, and family. In addition, students will understand, by taking this course, how Africa and African Americans, in spite of past enslavement, have had such a great influence and impact upon present day America.

COURSE OBJECTIVES & STUDENT LEARNING OUTCOMES:

A. GENERAL COURSE OBJECTIVES:

1. To apply critical thinking and analysis to the significant events of African—American History.
2. To ascertain the origin and basic structure of the U.S. Constitutional system, with special emphasis on the relationships between Federal, State, and local governments, and the legacy which was imparted to the African-American culture as part of the system.
3. Facilitate the student's understanding of the necessity of critical thinking for the solutions of problems and for the discrimination among values

B. COURSE SPECIFIC STUDENT LEARNING OUTCOMES:

SLO # 1:

Students will identify and elaborate upon the significant figures who were actively involved in the underground railroad during antebellum times in the United States.

SLO #2:

Students will be able to identify and clarify the major components in the Bill of Rights and their relation to the Constitution of the United States..

GUIDELINES FOR GRADING THE QUIZZES AND EXAMS

I. Objective Quizzes: A = 100 -90; B = 89 – 80; C = 79 – 70; D = 69 – 60; F = 59 and under

II. Essays: Quizzes, Midterms and Final Exams:

1 = Excellent: In both written and verbal form, the student displays an exemplary knowledge of historical facts as they apply within the local and global socio-political and economic context. In the evaluation of historical data, the student demonstrates organizational coherency as to the data's relevance to past, present and future populations and societies. The content and language of the students work indicates that he/she understands not only the purpose of the assignment/exam, but can ably communicate that understanding on the college level. The students work reflects not only insight, but a distinct ability to deductively, and correctly employ (95 %+) chronological accuracy in the assessment of historical events and situations. Students in the class can, in the written or verbal form, successfully (at least 80% of the time) discuss/debate the pros and/or cons and - give the meaning and implications of a given historical subject.

2= Good: The student has well above average knowledge of the historical facts and does know how to apply his/her work within the global socio-political and economic context. While the student does demonstrate a clarity and coherency in the evaluation of data, sometimes there are some errors in relating the data to the past and present. The student does comprehend the purpose and intent of the work and does communicate that well in any given assignments. Student does deductively and correctly employ chronological accuracy most (85%+) of the times, but the assessment of the events/situation is still valid. In class, this student can employ and discuss (70%) pro or con and give the meaning and implications of most of the given historical subject.

3= Average: The student has knowledge of historical facts and does comprehend the global context, but does not adequately know how to apply the socio-political and economic factors within that context. The student has some organizational coherency, but it is not consistent. The student can communicate on the college level, but has a problem in understanding and organizing the facts, which leads to problems in working with the purpose/content of the assignment. The student comprehends the importance of chronological accuracy, but does not employ it correctly or consistently (50%+), thus resulting in problems with the assessment of any given historical event or situation. In class this student seldom wants to be gets involved in speaking re: a pro or con situation. But the student still does the assignment(s).

4 = Below Average: Student seems to have some knowledge about historical facts, but has no idea about how to apply that knowledge within the given context. This student has problems with organizing his/her thoughts, especially in a coherent way. The student can communicate, but seems not to have studied or have the ability to assess what is expected (even after it has been reviewed several times during class). Students work displays a multitude of problems including: lack of comprehension about the importance of accurate chronology in historical interpretation(s), poor language skills for a college student, incomplete and/or missing assignments and very poor grades on written work.

5.= Failure: Incomplete or not submitted. An abundance of plagiarism. It appears that the student does not comprehend or is ambivalent about the actual subject matter of the assignment.

The student rating scale (above) was based on written works: comprehensive Final essay exam, Quizzes and Midterm. The purpose of this assignment was to get the students to think critically, historically examine and evaluate, while teaching themselves organization and how to appraise the information.

“Welcome to the class!”
