A successful pursuit of the many topics in this subject requires:

1. Regular and on-time attendance in class. Absences over 3 hours may result in exclusion or a grading penalty. Being tardy, or leaving class early, three times count as an absence. It is the student's responsibility to drop any class they wish to terminate.
2. Preparation for class and lab by studying the written materials. These include the texts, handouts, and the student's own lecture notes.
3. Regular computer lab activities using the applications programs. Several hours each week, at the student's convenience, are appropriate. This includes 2 hours in the college lab in addition to the scheduled class meeting time. Selected exercises are to be submitted as hard copy for credit.

The required materials for this class include:

1. WordPerfect 9. Complete Tutorial, Eisch, South-Western Publishing, ISBN 0-538-69247-2. (Rentable from college bookstore for $44.)
2. (1) Flash drive. Any capacity. (Only this class files to go on this drive.)
3. (6) narrow Scantron scoring sheets & a #2 pencil with eraser.

Grading will be based on the following: quizzes, a mid-term, specifically assigned lab exercises, the final exam, and attendance and participation. Each category counts 20%. Please consult the college catalog, student handbook, & schedule of classes for college rules & pertinent dates. The last date to drop any class is printed in the schedule. Unavoidable absences should be discussed with the instructor, preferably in advance. Notes & assignments, missed due to absence, should be obtained from another student. Make-up exams/quizzes are not provided for. -Completed exams will be discussed only during the class time when the results are announced. It is in your interest to keep track of your grades & absences. Children are not permitted in class. Recording devices, beepers/pagers & other personal electronic devices should be turned off. Cell phones should be turned off & no cell conversations are permitted in class or labs. Final exams must be taken at the time scheduled. Please have reference materials (note, handouts, lab text) when in the lab. Please read & observe all the lab rules which are designed to benefit all students.

All work for credit, either written or produced on the computer, must be your own. Students, of course, may work together while learning on the computer. Save only this class's work on flash drive & with file names specified in texts or by the instructor.
