WLAC Hosts Free Seminar on “YOU and YOUR Money” SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 21

West Los Angeles College will host a free seminar on “YOU and YOUR Money ...decisions for today and the future” on Saturday, November 21 from 10:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. The seminar will be led by Assistant Professor of Accounting Charles V. Daniel, formerly an auditor at the international accounting firm of KPMG. He is also President of the Los Angeles Professional Chapter of the National Association of Black Accountants (NABA).

This is a community service event. No products or services are being promoted or sold.

Professor Daniel will share information on how to wisely manage money, avoid financial pitfalls and identify doable strategies to recover from financial pitfalls. The seminar is designed to benefit both those at the start of and well into their financial life.

Topics to be covered will include:

- Leasing vs. Buying
- Dodging Financial Predators
- What is Your Financial Life Markup?
- Good Credit for Life (FICO and Beyond)
- What is Your Financial Life Break-Even?
- Net vs. Gross Pay – What’s the Big Difference?
- Show Me My Money (Lessons on Saving and Spending)
- AND Much More

While the event is free, an RSVP to www.WLAC.edu/Events is required. Campus location and parking information will be provided with confirmation of the RSVP. Afternoon lunch refreshments will be provided.

“I’ve had a great career in accounting and finance. Teaching and providing seminars like this for West’s students and the community is an opportunity for me to give back,” said Daniel.

Also in the coming weeks, the college will host free evening information sessions on its pharmacy technician, ABA-approved paralegal, and medical assistant programs. These are among the fastest growing occupations in California. The dates are November 18, November 19 and December 6, respectively. Information on these sessions can also be found at www.WLAC.edu/Events.

West Los Angeles College is an ACJCC accredited community college with full-time, part-time and online paths to university transfer and career preparation located at 9000 Overland Avenue (near Jefferson), Culver City, CA 90230. A second entrance is at 10100 Jefferson.
