PLEASE NOTE: This Syllabus is subject to change.

I suggest that you do NOT use any hand-held device such as an iPhone, iPad, Blackberry, etc., to take this course. This is especially true when submitting assignments.

IMPORTANT: Course starts September 23, 2012. You must access the course no later than September 30, 2013. Failure to access the course on or before September 30, 2013 could result in being dropped from this course. First week attendance is determined by completing the Welcome Message Assignment which is due September 29, 2013

PLEASE BE ADVISED that this 12 week course covers the exact same material that is covered in the normal 16 week Spring and Fall course. This is NOT a condensed version; this course contains the same requirements as in a 16 week course. Please keep this in mind.

This 12 week course requires time and dedication. You will be required to login at least twice a week and complete ALL assignments, tests and exams. Keep the following in mind: Late submissions cannot be accepted and there are no make-up exams nor extra credit assignments offered.

Please be sure to login to the ETUDES course site on the first day of class. It's important to have at least an hour or two available for checking in on the first day so you can look around and get a sense of the workload. Familiarize yourself with the course requirements and due dates so you will be able to plan your time well for the next sixteen weeks. Since this is an intense course, everyone needs to hit the ground running. Plan on logging in at least twice a week.

Remember, late submission cannot be accepted and that there is no make-up work or extra credit offered in this course.

It is the student's responsibility to make sure they have a working computer and internet connection. No technical problems can be accepted as a reason for not completing ALL assignments and exams.

Please note that students are responsible for learning the ETUDES-NG software and for using a working computer. Late submissions will not be accepted. Technical software or computer problems cannot be accepted as reason for not turning in an assignment on time. Make-up work is NOT offered in this course.

I strongly urge you to login early in the week and to login at least twice a week. Make sure you check the Announcement section and the Discussion and Private Message Area (Forums) each time you login. Please review all of each week's modules.

Make sure when you submit to the Forums (Discussion and Private Message Area) you submit to the correct Forum. Make sure you REPLY to my post. It makes reviewing all the posts much easier for both the class and for me. Thanks.

The main reason that I will sometimes ask you to submit one assignment to both areas (Discussion and Private Messages Area AND Assignments, Tests and Surveys Area) is because your submission in the Forums area is part of your class participation and it also gives the entire class the opportunity to share each other's thoughts and comments to the assignment.

The reason you submit to the Assignments, Tests and Surveys Area is so that if I choose to, I can make personal one-on-one comments concerning your work (for your eyes ONLY). I do not share these comments.

NOTE: I do not live in California. There is a three hour time difference between where I live and California. I'm three hours before you.

COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course surveys theatre from its prehistoric beginnings to contemporary drama. It emphasizes the reflection of the culture in the drama of each historical period and follows throughout the threads of subject matter, dramatic structure, playwrights, acting techniques and approaches, playing space, and visual elements. This course will also introduce you to the theatre and its related industries.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

Upon completion of this course you will be able to:

Have a well-rounded knowledge of the historical background of theatre in the western world.

Gain an understanding of the various theatrical styles and genres throughout history.

Have a working theoretical and practical understanding of how a stage production is put together from the written stage play to casting, to directing, to designing, to producing and eventually to the staging a full live theater production.

SLOs FOR THE COURSE

Discover the links in the arts between the past and present and what they reveal about human life.

This course will introduce you to the theatre and related industries. You will learn to become more aware of the components constituting an artistic entity and to intelligently and objectively evaluate a professional and non-professional performance for the stage. We will study the historical developments in Western dramatic literature and theatrical productions from the Greeks through today.

We will also touch on the historical relationship and contemporary impact theatre has had on the film and television industries.

Read effectively for gathering information, for meaning, cultural understanding and enjoyment. (D. Language and Rationality English)

From reading the following stage plays (LIST PLAYS) and evaluating each from both an historical and a personal perspective, gain a working theoretical and practical understanding of how a stage production is put together from the written stage play to casting, to directing, to designing, to producing and eventually to the staging a full live theater production.

REQUIRED READING

TEXT BOOK

Before downloading the following files, make sure you have Acrobat Reader installed. For a free copy of this small program, click here

STAGE PLAYS (click on the link to download file or view a website)

Macbeth by William Shakespeare (website)

A Doll's House by Henrik Ibsen - PDF file

A Raisin In The Sun by Lorraine Hansberry (not available for downloading). You will have to purchase this script. This script is usually available in most public libraries.

ALL CLASS DOWNLOADS (these downloads are included in each Unit's lecture)

COURSE REQUIREMENTS (See the Start Here Module, especially the "Course Schedule and Due Dates")

Reading Assignments: All reading must be done prior to the class for which it is assigned.

Submitting and Completing all Assignments and Discussion topics. Discussion topic DUE DATES are usually due by Sunday, 11:30pm of the announced assignment. No Late submissions can be accepted.

Completing Mid-Term and Final Exams

FILES

I can only read the following files: MS Word document DOCX, DOC, .PDF, TXT or .RTF files. I cannot read Mac files. If I CANNOT read your work, I cannot grade your work.

GRADING (See the Start Here! Module, especially the "Course Grading Policy")

A Word On Grading

CHECK THE "ANNOUNCEMENTS" AREA EACH TIME YOU LOGON TO CLASS.

If you miss an announcement, you may miss important information that just might effect your final grade point average.

It is your responsibility to check the announcement area at the beginning of each week.

You'll notice that some of your assignments have to be submitted to BOTH the Assignment area and the Discussion area.

PLEASE BE AWARE that the assignments posted in the Discussion area are gradable.

BE ADVISED: When submitting your assignment to the Discussion area make sure you submit your work to the CORRECT Forum in the Discussion area. The forum area will be stated in the week's lecture notes (units). It is very difficult to keep track of your submissions if they are submitted to a different forum. If you submit to the wrong Forum, you will not get credit for the submission.

REMEMBER ALL assignments have a due date. Once the due date passes, the assignment/test/forums topic will close and you will no longer be able to submit to that particular assignment. I hope the above helps. If you have questions or concerns about the class, please do not hesitate in contacting me.

Please remember that your final grade will be based on a total accumulation of points, therefore one point can make the difference between an A or B, B or a C, etc. These assignments are not difficult. Check your syllabus for final grade point breakdown.

This is just a reminder to make sure you read all the assignments listed in the weekly lecture notes and in the Assignment and Discussion areas (Forums). If you have any questions or concerns about the class, do not hesitate in contacting me. Please remember that I am here to help.

Also, when you finish your exams and look at the score, what you will originally see is only the score for the true and false questions. ETUDES-NG automatically scores those questions. I have to personally read and grade your essay questions, so you might check back to see the final total grade point.

You will be required to complete the following:

Mid-Term Exam (100 points)

Final Exam (100 points)

All Class Assignments. Points determined by specific assignment. SEE BELOW.

Participation in the Discussion and Private Messages area (points determined by specific assignment)

REMEMBER ALL assignments have a due date. Once the due date passes, the assignment/test/forums topic will close and you will no longer be able to submit to that particular assignment.

Your Exams and Quiz are located in the Tasks, Test and Survey Area

Your Unit requirements are located in either the:

Assignments Area and/or the Discussion and Private Messages Area.

CAREFULLY READ THE FOLLOWING

The topics we are undertaking in our Theatre course this semester have controversy as their theoretical foundation. By definition, since the days of Protagoras, the ancient Greek "Father of Debate" who first taught that all issues have least two sides in order to have debate, One must have controversy. If we all agree then there is no debate for there is nothing to debate. This means that in class during presentations you may be exposed to new, different, and controversial ideas, language and issues with which you may fundamentally disagree, which may offend you in some manner. However, the recognition that controversy is at the heart of debate does not encourage or condone gender, sexist, racist, ethnic, or religious slurs, or any form of slander or hate speech. As always in our class, these forms of speech will not be permitted. However, if you are offended in any way by ideas and/or language that are different than your own, you are free to leave the class. You are not a captive in this class. If you elect to leave, you will incur no loss of credit or points in grading in this class. If you have any questions, please contact me. Some of the language, stage plays, course material and video presentations may be deemed offensive by some people. Please let me know before continuing with this class if think you may have a problem with this type of material.

DROP POLICY

If you choose to drop the course, it is your responsibility to do so before the official drop date listed at <http://www.wlac.edu/scheduleofclass/schedulecalendar.html> (or see below) You will not be automatically excluded for lack of participation. Please note that the student is responsible for dropping a course at the appropriate time and in the correct manner. See the college calendar for dates. If you have any questions concerning a course drop, please contact WLAC's Admissions Office.

No Excuses can be accepted for missing assignments or test and exam submissions. If you feel you cannot meet this course's requirements, I suggest you drop the course as soon as possible.

If you choose to drop the course, it is your responsibility to do so before the official drop date. Please note that the student is responsible for dropping a course at the appropriate time and in the correct manner.

However, if during the course, a student's total grade point (to date) indicates a failing grade point average, that student can be dropped on or before WLAC's scheduled "Last Day To Drop" date. See dates listed in the course syllabus.

Please note that the student is responsible for dropping a course at the appropriate time and in the correct manner. If you have any questions concerning a course drop, please contact WLAC's Admissions Office.

INSTRUCTOR RESPONSE POLICY

If you have a question for me, please post it to the Questions discussion area. If your question is of a personal nature (which you do not want your fellow students to see), send me a Private Message, or email me directly. I will respond to you within at least 48 hours and often much sooner.

Email me at foremost@pacbell.net

IMPORTANT: Plagiarism will not be tolerated. Plagiarism is a piece of writing that has been copied from someone else and is presented as being your own work and it is the act of plagiarizing; taking someone's words or ideas as if they were your own.

IMPORTANT COURSE INFORMATION

NO EXTRA CREDIT WILL BE AVAILABLE IN THIS COURSE. You will be required to fulfill all course requirements on or before the due dates. No exceptions. If you think there may be a technical problem, it behooves you to resolve that problem. This course WILL NOT accept technical problems as reason why one could not fulfill the course requirements.

NO MAKEUP WORK WILL BE AVAILABLE IN THIS COURSE will be accepted without a written and signed letter sent as a hard copy to me and your college counselor. This letter must detail the reason you did not complete the course requirements. If necessary, you must also attach any support material.
