

PRESS RELEASE

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

DATE: August 16, 2011

CONTACT: Michelle Long-Coffee, Dir. PR & Advertising
(310) 287-4597 | longcofm@wlaac.edu
9000 Overland Ave. - Culver City, CA 90230

FREE SCREENING: “9 TO 12” 3 hours to deliver...or else!

In Fall and Spring, West Los Angeles College Professor Ashok Patil – a former software engineer for Motorola and Rockwell Semiconductor -- helps students prepare to enter or advance careers in Computer Science and Information Technology. But in the Summers, Patil creates award-winning films in India. His first film was a drama titled SHAAPA. It won four Kamataka State Awards including best screenplay, best cinematography and best actress. His second film, a comedy, enjoyed a 25 week run. His latest effort is “9 to 12.” He used the planning and management skills acquired as an engineer and the know-how, enhanced by his time in the Chapman University Film School, to complete the film in just 27 days.

“9 to 12” is a thriller with moments of comedy. A taxi driver is pressed into making a delivery for some underworld types to cover medical expenses for his mother. The driver has just 3 hours to complete his task ...or else.

WHEN: TUESDAY, AUGUST 23 @ 6:00PM

WHAT: Free Movie Screening – “9 to 12”

WHERE: The Culver Plaza Theater in downtown Culver City
9919 Washington Blvd, Culver City CA 90232

WHO: Written and directed by award-winning filmmaker, WLAC Professor Ashok Patil.

###