

When is Migration a "Crisis"?

Evaluating the EU's Approach to Syrian Refugees

A discussion with Ash Ü. Bâli

Ash Ü. Bâli is Director of the UCLA Center for Near Eastern Studies and Professor of Law at the UCLA School of Law where she teaches in the International and Comparative Law Program. Recent work includes “Turkish Constitutionalism Under the AKP” (Theory & Event, 2016); “Constitutional Design Without Constitutional Moments: Lessons from Religiously Divided Societies” (forthcoming, Cornell International Law Journal); “The Wrong Kind of Intervention in Syria,” in THE UNITED NATIONS AND THE ARABS (eds. Vijay Prashad and Karim Makdisi) (Oxford, forthcoming 2016); and “Negotiating Non-Proliferation: International Law and Delegation in the Iranian Nuclear Crisis,” (UCLA Law Review, 2014). She currently serves as a Turkey page editor for the e-zine Jadaliyya and as chair of the Advisory Committee for Human Rights Watch-Middle East.

WHEN	WHERE
	WEST LA COLLEGE GC - 160
THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 22	9000 OVERLAND AVE. General Classroom Building
1 – 3p.m.	CULVER CITY, 90230 Room # 160