ACTIVITIES FOR THE RESEARCH AND EVALUATION COMPONENT

(After each activity, where appropriate, indicate the #’s of the Component Standard satisfied.)

1. The students who undergo the assessment process will be compared to those who do not undergo the process to determine if students who are assessed have a higher GPA, complete more units, and/or persist at the college for a longer period of time than students who do not undergo this process (1).

2. Students enrolled in the remedial English and Math programs and the ESL program will be tracked to determine the rate of completion of higher levels of English, Math and ESL (1).

3. The counseling department will record the number of students who are served and an analysis will be conducted to determine if students who are seen by a counselor have a higher GPA, complete more units, and/or persist at the college for a longer period of time than students who do not see a counselor (1).

4. The Degree Audit Program will record a student’s referral to services and the service giver will record the giving of a service. A comparison will be made between the rate of referral to a service and the giving of that service (1).

5. Students who are referred to a service and subsequently receive that service will be compared to those that do not seek the service in order to determine if a difference in persistence, GPA, and completion of units occurs (1).

6. The English, Mathematics and ESL disciplines are using the ACT COMPASS Assessment test, and in light of having utilized the test the faculty will determine if the cut-scores are appropriate and whether their is any cultural or linguistic bias (2).

7. An analysis of the gender, ethnicity, and disability of students taking the assessment examination will be undertaken to determine if a disproportionate number in any group of students are taking the English, Math, and ESL assessment examinations (3).

8. An analysis of the scores on the assessment exams will be undertaken to determine if a disproportionate placement of students into basic skills courses in English, Math, and ESL is occurring based on gender, ethnicity, and disability (3,4).

9. The data on the assessment exams and their relationship to gender, ethnicity, and disability will be given to the Coordinator of Matriculation, the Vice President of Student Services, Vice President of Academic Affairs and the Matriculation Advisory Committee(1)

10. The Vice President of Student Services, Vice President of Academic Affairs and the Matriculation Coordinator will examine in detail the findings to determine if the differences that are occurring within the assessment test are based on factors that the college has some control of and can thus rectify. The faculty will determine if the reasons for any differential impacts from assessment testing can be identified, and what form of intervention can be developed to change the testing patterns (3,4).

(After each activity, where appropriate, indicate the #’s of the Component Standard satisfied.)

11. Student enrollments will be analyzed based on the numbers of students who are placed into particular courses based on their score on the assessment examination and the availability of those courses to determine if course offerings match course need (4).

12. Students will be tracked across the English, Math and ESL curriculum to determine if students are progressing though the sequence of courses (4).

13. The counseling staff will begin to update student educational goals and objectives of student seen and students who have seen a counselor will be compared to those that have not to determine the impact of counseling services in defining the students goals and objectives (5).

14. Students who have not seen a counselor and those that have seen a counselor will be tracked to determine if students who have defined their goals have a higher GPA, complete more units, and persist at the college for a longer period of time (5).

15. The students who undergo the assessment process will be compared to those who do not undergo the process to determine if students who are assessed and oriented have a higher GPA, complete more units, and/or persist at the college for a longer period of time than students who do not undergo these processes (6).

16. Students will be tracked across several semesters to determine the degree to which counseling intervention improves student outcomes (grades), persistence at the college, and movement through the curriculum (skills improvement). Students who see a counselor will be compared to those that do not (6).

17. Students who have not seen a counselor and those that have seen a counselor will be tracked to determine if students who have defined their goals with the help of a counselor are meeting that goal to a greater extent than those that do not see a counselor (6).

18. Student enrollments will be analyzed based on the numbers of students who are placed into particular courses based on their score on the assessment examination and the availability of those courses to determine if course offerings match course need (7,8).

19. Students will be tracked across the English, Math and ESL curriculum to determine if students are progressing though the sequence of courses (6,7,8).

20. Counselors will keep track of students who receive specialized counseling services such as the Career Center, Transfer Center, and these students will be tracked to determine if students who have received these services have a higher GPA, complete more units, and are progressing through the sequence of courses at a higher rate than the general student (6).

(After each activity, where appropriate, indicate the #’s of the Component Standard satisfied.)

21. Students who are enrolled at the first census will be analyzed for ethnicity, gender, age (10)

22. Students in pre-collegiate English, Math and ESL courses, associate degree applicable English, Math and ESL courses, and transfer courses in English, Math and ESL courses will be analyzed by gender, ethnicity, age, and disability (11).

23. Students in pre-collegiate English and Math courses and in lower levels of the ESL curriculum will be analyzed by gender, ethnicity, age, and disability. These students will be analyzed for completion versus non completion and movement into upper levels of the English, Math and ESL curriculum as well as the general college curriculum (11,13).

24. The counseling and admissions staff will insure that the exemption versus non-exemption status is uniformly defined and recorded at the time of enrollment. Each semester an analysis of the numbers of non-exempt students as well as the numbers of exempt students including the reasons for the exemption will take place (14).

25. When a students’ status changes so that the exemption no longer holds the exemption status will be recorded and the student will be notified. The admission staff will keep track of students who come in for services so that an analysis can be conducted on these newly non-exempt students (14).

26. The campus ombudsperson will keep track of students who file a student complaint. The record keeping will include student name, id number, and reason for the complaint. The list will be sent to the researcher at the end of each semester for analysis (15).

27. The Dean of Admissions will keep track of students who file a special petition for exemption from one or more of the matriculation standards. The record keeping will include student name, id number, and reason for the petition. The list will be sent to the researcher at the end of each semester for analysis (15).

28. All services received from students from using Counseling, Assessment, Orientation and Financial Aid will be recorded. Students who are non-exempt will then be compared to those that are exempt to determine the degree to which matriculation is serving the needs of the students (16).

29. Data files on student demographics, enrollment, assessments, and degrees will be produced at the district level each semester and down-loaded and stored for use at the college (17)

30. The counseling staff will enter all information on counseling services rendered and referrals made, as well as the giving of the service in the referral, into the district data base so that studies can be conducted on the effectiveness of student service based matriculation services. Each semester the data in these "counseling" files will be downloaded and stored at the college (17).

31. The admissions staff will enter all information on matriculation status, petitions and complaints into the district data base so that studies can be conducted on the effectiveness of matriculation services. Each semester the data in these "admissions" files will be downloaded and stored at the college (17).
